

THE GETTYSBURG TIMES.

Vol X. No. 194

Gettysburg, Pa. Saturday June 1 1912

Price Two Cents

White Shoes

PUMPS and COLONIALS

CANVAS and BUCK
For WOMEN and CHILDREN

ECKERT'S STORE

"On The Square"

WIZARD THEATRE

Pathe Selig Western Kalem

The Shrinking Rawhide - Selig Western

You Remember Ellen - Kalem

Pathe Weekly - Pathe

-- A -- Great -- Show --

ARE YOU FOOTSOKE?

We have everything for the CURE and COMFORT of YOUR FEET

Ezo, Paxto, Tiz, Foot Soaps, Foot Powders, Corn and Bunion Shields, every kind Arch Insteps and Rubber Inner Heels.

Don't suffer during the warm weather with sore burning and aching feet when relief is so near at hand.

People's Drug Store.

NEW PHOTOPLAY

Biograph	Lubin	Vitagraph
A Siren of Inipulse		Biograph
The Baby Tramp		Lubin Comedy
Lulu's Anarchist		Vitagraph Comedy
Fishing in Florida		Lubin

Live Right, Dress Right and You're All Right

There isn't a man in the world more entitled to good looks, good clothes and good luck than yourself.

Lippy Clothes are the kind that put you right.

J. D. LIPPY, Tailor.

THE QUALITY SHOP

Our Summer list of Haberdashery consists of a fine line of underwear, Lion Brand Shirts and collars, the very latest line of ties, including the Del Park wash ties, interwoven silk hose and the famous Brigham Hopkins straw hats.

Our High School and College Penants and Cushions make nice graduation presents.

We have the official Boy Scout Penant.

You will find in our Tailoring department a fine assortment of Summer Fabrics for your commencement suit.

Will M. Seligman.

Tailor. Haberdasher.

Table Ware Used But Once

All the Knives, Forks, Spoons and Tin Cups used by St. James Church at the Memorial Day luncheon are now offered for sale at The Gettysburg Department Store. Knives 5 cents each, forks and spoons 1 cent each. Pretty and attractive white metal, tin cups 1 cent each.

Gettysburg Department Store

THOMAS BROTHERS

On the square for a square deal.

HATS—We have all the newest strains.

Shoe Department The toes are not so high this season,
our assortment is equal to the city, call and be convinced. We are closing out a lot of $3.25 and $3.50 shoes at $2.39. Not quite the latest style but the quality is in them.

Hosiery We give this department special attention and have them to suit everybody, always have in stock extra size hose for stout people. We added a 25c Misses to our line.

BOY'S SUITS—Have prices that will surprise you.
Buy our underwear and keep cool. MEN'S B.V.D. Poris-knit, Union Suits, balbriggan. LADIES—Snug fit Union Suits, muslin combination suits and vests of every description, also boys underwear.

Another assortment dinner sets just came in, all new designs. We handle the New Idea 10c patterns.
Thanking you for past favors.

THOMAS BROTHERS,

General Merchandise, Biglerville, Pa.

18 GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS

Gettysburg High School Exercises Attract Large Audience who are Delighted with Twenty Fifth Annual Commencement.

Gettysburg High School celebrated its twenty fifth commencement—its silver anniversary—by graduating eighteen girls and boys in BrueChapel Friday evening in exercises which were not only interesting but which reflected even more credit than usual upon the public school system as conducted in Gettysburg.

Upon a stage prettily decorated with daisies, potted plants, the class motto board and pin the graduates came as the Citizens' Band played a stirring march. The large audience clapped generously as the seniors appeared and throughout the evening frequently manifested approval in this way. The self-composure of the graduates was especially worthy of comment. They were entirely at home upon the stage and at no time was there any sign of nervousness on the part of any of the seniors.

After the invocation by Rev. L.
Dow Ott, Miss Myrtle Sheely gave the salutatory; Miss Margaret Troxell gave an oration on "The Power of Fiction"; and Miss Anna Weaver one on "Household Arts and Sciences." Miss Pauline Rudisill sang "The Pirate." Miss Myrtle Sheely recited "Hannah Arnett's Faith" and Will Taylor gave an oration on "Skill of Hand and Eye."

Miss Sarah Reen read her essay on "John Adams" which captured the D. A. R. prize and a quartet composed of Miss Freda Buehler, Miss Sara Reen, Miss Pauline Rudisill and Miss Sarah Ludwig sang "Drink to Me only with thine Eyes" and "Comin' through the Rye." Miss Elizabeth Sheads gave an oration on "Obedience
the American Lesson."

With "Whispers from the Pines" the subject Miss Lottie Raffensperger gave the class prophecy which was unusually bright and one of the best features of the evening. The various vocations, callings and destinies of the members of the class were pointed out in a bright and interesting manner and even those in the audience who did not know personally the graduates found plenty of enjoyment in the visions seen by the prophetess.

The presentation of gifts came next.
Possibly no number on a commencement program excites more interest than this and Friday night was no exception. Miss Beulah Armor and Erle Deardorff had charge of the pleasant task and with appropriate introductory remarks gave the following gifts: to Robert Blocher, a red necktie and "diamond" pin; Grover Keckler, a hundred pound weight; George Kendlehart, high hat, cane and button hole bouquet; Lottie Raffensperger, a lamp filled with midnight oil; Sarah Reen, a bean pole; Pauline Rudisill a pair of scales on which were balanced a Florida alligator and a monkey; Elizabeth Sheads a net to catch happiness; Myrtle Sheely, a combined gun and fan; Hannah Shmukler, organ; Daniel Skelly, meat store sign;
Etta M. Spese, wind mill; Astron Stern, lantern; Will S. Taylor, frame with pictures of several noted orators and place for his own photograph; Margaret Troxell, bag of peanuts; Anna Weaver, set of furniture; Bertha Weikert, a parrot, fan, and dog; Beulah Armor, a motto
"No"; Erle Deardorff, a house and gun.

The address to the graduates was made by the Rev. B. H. Hart, of Harrisburg, a native of Gettysburg, and a second cousin of Jennie Wade.
He was born in the Jennie Wade house on Baltimore street in 1864. His parents lived on Seminary Ridge at the time of the battle. Rev. Mr. Hart's address was along the line of the necessity of work and sacrifice where anything worth while is to be accomplished.

Prof. Calvin Hamilton, president of the School Board, presented the diplomas after a few brief remarks and the
D. A. R. prizes were given by Mrs.
Walter H. O'Neal, regent of the local chapter. Miss Sarah Reen received the first prize of $5.00 and Miss Lottie Raffensperger the second prize of $2.50. An engraved certificate was given Miss Anna Weaver for first honorable mention and an engraved card Miss Elizabeth Sheads for second honorable mention. Mrs. O'Neal referred to the recent action of the local chapter which provided for the purchase of a set of historical books for the D. A.
R. rooms which will be available to High School students intending to compete for prizes in future years. She also told of the local chapter having contributed a $5.00 prize to the Tyrone high school for an historical essay.
It is known as the Gettysburg Prize.

Calvin Hartman presented the Alumni Association prizes, $5.00 to Miss Lottie Raffensperger, who attained first honor in general scholarship with an average of 90.2 and $3.00 to Miss Myrtle Sheely, second honor, with an average of 85.48.

Prof. Burgeon presented the faculty prizes, a special prize of $5.00 being given to Miss Elizabeth Sheads for having a perfect attendance for eight terms; and a prize of $3.00 to Miss Myrtle Sheely for spelling, her average having been 99.8. Prof. Burgeon commented upon the regularity of attendance in the local schools and said that at the present time there are seven High School pupils who have not missed a day in five years. Miss Beulah Armor received special mention for proficiency in typewriting.

The honor roll of the Senior class—those with an average of 90 or above—was as follows, Lottie Raffensperger, Myrtle Sheely, Elizabeth Sheads, Margaret Troxell, Anna Weaver, Will Taylor, Sarah Reen, Erle Deardorff, Beulah Armor.

The valedictory by Lottie Raffens-perger, the class song by the graduates, and the benediction by Rev. Mr.
Ott, closed the exercises, conceded to have been among the best ever given here.

CHURCH NOTICES

SALEM U. B.

Preaching Sunday morning 10.00 a.
m. The pastor wishes to meet the Official Board immediately after the services.

UNITED BRETHREN

The Memorial United Brethren church will hold no regular services.
Christian Endeavor at 6.30 and children's day exercise at 7.30 p. m.

METHODIST

Sunday School at 9.30 in the morning; preaching at 10.30 subject of sermon: "Fault Finding." Epworth League at 6.30 p. m. A cordial invitation to all services. L. Dow Ott, pastor.

COLLEGE LUTHERAN

Dr. H. C. Allenman will preach in the morning at 10.30 and in the evening at 7.30. Sunday School at 9.15 and Christian Endeavor at 6.30.

ST. JAMES LUTHERAN

Preaching at 10.30 and 7.30; Sunday School 9 o'clock; Christian Endeavor
6.15.

CATHOLIC

Mass 7.30 and 10 a. m.; Sunday School 9.15 a. m.; young people's meeting 6.30 p. m.; vespers and benediction 7 p. m.; Holy Baptism 3 p. m.
Daily Mass 7 a. m. Rev. Father T.
Dougherty, rector.

PRESBYTERIAN

Public worship at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school 9.15 a. m.
Christian Endeavor prayer meeting
6.45 p. m. Junior Endeavor 6.30.

EPISCOPAL

Sunday School 9.30; morning service 10.30, evening service 6.30.

CENTRE MILLS & BIGLERVILLE
Reorganizing of the Sunday School and preaching at Centre Mills United Brethren church Sunday morning. A memorial service, instead of regular Brotherhood, in Biglerville United Brethren church Sunday at 2 p. m. and children's service 7.30 p. m.

ST. PAUL'S A. M. E. ZION

Washington street. Public worship at 11 a. m.; Sunday School at 2 p. m.; Christian Endeavor meeting at 7.30 p. m.; evening sermon and Holy Communion at 8 p. m.; prayer meeting Wednesday evening. A cordial welcome to all the services. W. O. Cooper, pastor.

REFORMED

Sunday School 9.15 a. m.; Children's Day service at 10.30 a. m. A special program will be rendered by the Sunday Schools and the congregation Church service at 7.30 p. m.
All are cordially invited.

LOTS OF BERRIES

Seven bushels of strawberries were offered for sale at the curb market this morning. Stall holders at first asked twenty cents a box but this was cut in half later while the smaller berries sold as low as three boxes for a quarter. Some cherries were again offered for sale.

DEATH OF A CHILD

John Lawrence Murren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Murren, of Edge-grove, died Wednesday, May 29, at 5
p. m., from pneumonia, aged 7 months and 24 days.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Coneyago Chapel, Rev. Germanus Kohl officiating.

APPOINTED RURAL DEAN

Rev. James A. Huber, rector of St.
Joseph's Catholic Church, Hanover, has been appointed a rural dean of the Harrisburg Diocese, with the title of Very Reverend. His deanery comprises York and Adams Counties.

FLOWER SHOW AGAIN

Gettysburg will have its second annual flower show next September.
Just a reminder to those who will want to have an "exhibit" at that time.

We have left a few Emerson buggies from our clearance sale of last spring that we will sell at cost.
Gettysburg Supply House.

CONGREGATION IS ORGANIZED

Reformed Congregation at Bigl-ville Organizes under Direction of Classis Committee. Will Erect Handsome Church.

A new congregation was organized in Biglerville on Friday evening, to be known as "Trinity Reformed" church. A committee was appointed by the Gettysburg Classis to effect this organization, composed of Rev. Dr.
Korn, of New Oxford, as chairman,
Rev. Abner S. Dechant, of Hanover, and Elder Samuel Robert, of Little-town. Mr. Dechant preached a very appropriate sermon to suit the occasion.

Organization is the result of the ardent work of the pastor, Rev. T. C.
Hesson of Arendtsville, who will be pastor of this congregation, and was granted by a petition being presented to classis and signed by forty four people, who will be the charter members.

The following officers were elected and installed: elders for two years, Amos Sihlik, Willis H. Lady; for one year, Henry Hees, T. F. Rhodes; deacons, for two years, Harry Quickel, Mervin Treistle; for one year, John W. Funt, J. W. Peters.

Plans have been received for the new church and work has been started in the way of excavation for the cellar and foundation. The building will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The church will be of red brick and have a seating capacity of three hundred and fifty people. Memorial stained glass windows will be installed and all modern conveniences will be utilized to make it a very handsome and convenient home for the congregation.

The church will be located on East York street, one of the most beautiful locations in the town, and when completed should make a very fine appearance.

WEDDING AT ARENDTSVILLE

A beautiful wedding occurred Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Troxell in Arendtsville, at high noon when their daughter, Netta Evelyn, became the bride of Francis C. Knous, a popular young tailor of Bethlehem.

Only the immediate families and a few friends witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. I. W. Troxell, of Dillsburg, assisted by Rev. D. T. Koer, her pastor. The bride and groom were unattended. M. Elizabeth Troxell, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

They entered the parlor to the Lo-bengrin wedding march rendered by Miss Mary Mengel, of Reading. The ring ceremony of the Lutheran church was used. "O Promise Me" was played during the ceremony. The bride was attired in white crepe de chine over chiffon tulle trimmed with Duchess lace. She carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The parlor was elegantly decorated with palms and flowers. The bride received many beautiful and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Knous left on the 4.19 train for their newly furnished home in Bethlehem where they expect to make their future home.

RELIC OF JOHNSTOWN FLOOD

John A. Davis, of Littlestown, is the owner of a watch which he found after the flood at Johnstown, more than 20 years ago.

Mr. Davis was at that time employed by James Humer, of Kingsdale, a contractor, and went to Johnstown to work. It was the third day after the flood that the watch was found imbedded in lot of rubbish near the Cambria Steel works. Mr. Davis had the watch cleaned and it has been keeping good time ever since. The timepiece is highly prized by Mr. Davis who says he would not part with it at any price.

MORE DECORATIONS, PLEASE

The Grand Army veterans will start coming in on Monday for the annual encampment and those citizens who have not already done so are asked to decorate their homes or places of business early Monday morning. A good display as possible is wanted by the local committee in charge.
Some of those who decorated for Memorial Day allowed flags and bunting to remain up for the encampment.

NEW DRUGGIST

Frank A. Treichler, of Norristown, and a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, has assumed the management of Huber's Drug Store.

Mr. Isaac Rife, R. D. 6, delivers ice cream for the Ice and Storage Company.

THE season of the year is here for forms, are your buildings protected.
Our rates are very low. Dougherty and Hartley, Insurance.

PERSONAL NOTES AND BRIEF ITEMS

Paragraphs of News Telling of the Happenings in and about Town.
People Visiting here and those Sojourning Elsewhere.

Joseph A. Eckenrode and family, of Brooklyn, New York, are here spending a few days with his parents, Dr.
and Mrs. C. E. Eckenrode, West High street.

Miss Paris Billet and son, Charles, of Harrisburg, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Eberhart on Baltimore street.

J. L. Kendlehart and son, Joseph, of Harrisburg, Misses Lillian and Mollie Bowen, of Baltimore, and Miss Nan Wassen, of Tyrone, have returned to their homes after visiting the home of the Misses Kendlehart on West Middle street.

Mrs. William M. Slentz, of Harrisburg, who had been visiting her parents, on Steinwehr avenue, the past ten days returned to her home, Friday.

William Slentz, of Harrisburg, spent Memorial Day at the home of William Tawney, Steinwehr avenue.

Millard M. Tawney, of Harrisburg, spent several days this week at his home on Steinwehr avenue.

Mrs. Martha Tule of Pasadena, California, and Mrs. Sara Pike, of Papillion, Nebraska, are visiting Mrs.
Anna Boyer, of route 6.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fisher, of Pine Grove, Schuylkill county, were Memorial Day visitors in town.

Miss Ruth Harner and Miss Pearl Richardson, are week-end guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr.
and Mrs. S. W. Orner, of Biglerville.

Mrs. Elmira Funt is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. William Hauer.

Miss Margaret Meckley, of Gren-lock, New Jersey, and Miss Alice Meckley, of route 7, spent part of Memorial Day, with John Biesecker and family, of route 5.

Ralph Reed and Reed Bivans of McConnellsburg, have been visiting at the home of J. A. Rummel.

Misses Hewitt and Woyandt, of Waynesboro, spent Thursday in Gettysburg.

Mrs. J. D. Weigle and son, Earl, were this week guests at the home of J. A. Rummel, Stevens street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith, of Virginia, have returned home after spending the past few days with Mrs. W.
H. Lott.

Miss Margaret A. Lott is visiting relatives and friends in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sylvester, of Philadelphia, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Baughman on West Middle street. Mr. Sylvester is an old veteran, having served three years in the Second Delaware Regiment, and fought in the battle of Gettysburg, his regiment being engaged in the thickest of the fight in the Wheat field.

Mr. and Mrs. Guyon Kitzmiller and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Elizabeth Sachs, of Baltimore, are spending some time with Edwin Plank and family.

Charles, Nevin, Minnie, Grace and Lillie Harner, of Freedom township, spent Memorial Day with Edwin Plank and family.

Alonso Plank and son, Richard, of Philadelphia, Elmer Plank, wife, son Cyril, and Miss Sara Adams, of Hagerstown, Mrs. Jacob Busman and son, Ernest, spent Memorial day with Mr. and Mrs. G. Daniel Plank.

Mrs. C. R. Greenfield, of Atlantic City, left for her home this morning, accompanied by her nephew, Fred L.
Mumper.

TO RESUME WORK

The practices of the Chautauqua Chorus for the sessions this summer will be started on Monday evening at 7.30 in the lecture room of the College Lutheran church. All members are requested to be present and any others who may wish to join are cordially invited to attend.

GOOD GAIN

Robert B. Diehl, of Franklin township in addition to his duties as county auditor has found time to raise some fine cattle. Twelve cattle gained an average of 426 pounds in nine months. He sold them this morning to C. T. Lower. The total weight was 11,840 pounds.

RUTH DOUGHERTY

Ruth, the second daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. J. Frank Dougherty, of Reading, died at midnight Friday.
Funeral notice later.

LOST: rain coat on Carlisle street.
Reward if returned to Times office.

LETTERS FROM COUNTY TOWNS

Correspondents send in Many Items of Interesting News from their Respective Towns. Personals and Many Brief Items.

EAST BERLIN

East Berlin, June 1.—W. Roy Starry and Norman D. Starry, York Springs, have purchased the Beeten farm in Lattimore township from their brother, F. P. Starry, of Atlanta, Ga. The farm has several hundred peach and apple trees.

Contractor Trimmer is razing the Glattfelder house, adjoining the News office, preparatory to erecting a large double dwelling on the same site.

We are informed that the Indian band at Carlisle has disbanded and their engagement with Oniska Tribe, No. 40, I. O. R. M. of this place is cancelled. The band was to appear in East Berlin some time in August during the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the tribe.

Clarence Gochmar has accepted a position with W. L. Altland, the Baltimore barber, and left for the Monumental City Sunday evening.

The collecting committee for the improvements to the Holtzswam church announces that the $2800 debt is now cancelled and that they have a snug balance of about $200 in treasurer's hands.

ABBOTTSTOWN

Abbottstown, June 1.—Walter Kime, of Table Rock, spent Sunday here among friends.

D. Guy Hollinger and family, Hanover, were Sunday visitors here.

E. H. Berkheimer and family, of Gettysburg, were visitors here over Sunday.

The Beaver cigar factory started operating again Monday.

Dr. M. Hoke and wife, Spring
Grove, were the guests of H. F.
Stambaugh and family Sunday.

Misses Annie and Ruth Jacobs, of Spring Grove, visited their uncle, E.
E. Jacobs and family on Sunday.

J. B. Carns has started a restaurant known as the West End restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Criswell, of York Springs, were visitors to our town the past week.

Misses Elsie Eisenhart and Frances Hollinger returned home from Ebensville and Patton, respectively, where they were engaged in teaching.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George Win-and a daughter.

Miss Alice Wolf, who is attending school at Shippensburg, spent a few days this week with her parents here.

Mrs. Abraham Serff and Mr. and Mrs. L. Anthony, of Hanover, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. A.
Nagle and family over Sunday.

H. E. Hershey, wife and daughter, Edna, of York Springs, were visitors here several days this week.

Mrs. Mary Wetzel and Mrs. Nancy Stahl, of Hanover, and Miss Salome Lochman, of York, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Nickay Sunday.

HARNEY

Harney, June 1.—We are informed by some of our people that the blight has started on the early potatoes, and is likely to damage the crop.

J. W. Slagenbaupt is expecting a bumper crop of strawberries this season. He has commenced picking the early varieties, and we are told that they are fine in quality and flavor.

Mumps seems to be making the rounds in this section. Goldie Shildt is just about over them, but

THE GETTYSBURG TIMES

Published Daily Except Sunday
Times and News Publishing Company
W. LAVERE HAFER, Secretary and Treasurer.
PHILIP R. BIKLE, President.

PHILIP R. BIKLE, Editor.
SUBSCRIPTION: Served by carrier in Gettysburg for 25 cents per month. Mailed outside of Gettysburg for 25 cents per month. Single copies to non-subscribers, 2 cents.

IF you receive THE TIMES by mail you can find the date up to which you are paid on the pink address label on your paper. The date will be changed within ten days after your money is received at The Times Office.

Entered August 15, 1904, at Gettysburg, Pa., as second-class matter, under Congress March 3, 1879.

RELL PHONE UNITED PHONE
Office in Northwest corner of Centre Square, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

Want ads. 1 cent per word for first insertion and one-half cent per word for each additional insertion. Resolutions of respect, poetry and memorials 1 cent per word.

TO OUR READERS

The Gettysburg Times takes absolutely no part in politics, being neutral on all such matters. Anything that appears in general news columns, concerning state or national politics, is furnished us by The American Press Association, a concern which gives the same news to Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, or Socialist papers and which is strictly non-partisan.

Our advertising columns are open to all candidates of all parties.

SEE OUR REGAL and KEITH & PRATT SHOES and OXFODS for MEN

Owing to a mistake in dates; the display of SUITINGS will not take place April 24th. SAMPLES BOOK at store now.

C. B. KITZMILLER.

Rhode Island Red Hatching Eggs For Sale

Price 50 cents for 15 eggs.

Stock as fine as any in the country. Can be gotten from

Wm. B. McIlhenny at

"WOODSIDE FARM" near Hunterstown.

TAKE WARNING

If your property had been destroyed by fire Monday night, as were several places in the rear of Chambersburg Street, what would it have meant to you in dollars and cents? Are you amply protected against such a loss? If not take warning from last night's fire, and let me place your fire protection with one of the companies I represent.

G. C. FISSEL

Masonic Building

Gettysburg, Pa.

Coal, Wood and Gas Range

All three in one

At approximately the cost of either a good Coal Range or a Gas Range. Gas burners are always ready, and the coal section can be arranged in 3 seconds. Does not occupy much space. Let us show it to you.

Special prices on SEWING MACHINES

By reason of our closing out several lines of Sewing Machines, we have some exceptional values on our floor From $15.00 up. They may not last long.

Chas. S. Mumper & Co.

First National Bank Building,

Centre Square.

On account of

The Brethren Convention

The Western Maryland Railroad will operate

A Special Train To York

SUNDAY, JUNE 2nd

Leaving Chambersburg 6.15 A. M. Round Trip fare $1.50

Waynesboro	6.45	"	"	"	$1.00
Fairfield	7.47	"	"	"	1.00
Gettysburg	8.15	"	"	"	1.00
New Oxford	8.36	"	"	"	.80
Berlin Junction	"	"	"	"	.75
Hanover	8.50	"	"	"	.60

Returning train will leave York 7 p. m.

SHORE CRAFT CASE IS AIRED

Dougherty, Accused Councilman, Held in $3000 Bail

MORE ARRESTS ARE LIKELY

Detective Burns and His Assistant Tell of Trap Laid For Suspected Members of Council.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 1. — A thousand men were packed into Odd Fellows' hall to hear the evidence presented by William J. Burns, the detective, against Councilman Harry Dougherty, when he was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace John Burgen, of Hammonton, on the charge of accepting a bribe in connection with a concrete boardwalk ordinance. He was held in $3000 bail.

Dougherty's arrest was followed by a sensational exposure of alleged graft on the part of other councilmen and officials of the city. Four councilmen are alleged to have confessed to accepting bribes in connection with this same boardwalk bill, and many other officials and politicians are said to be involved in city graft scandals.

Dougherty stood at one side of the room in a crowd of friends when he was called on to plead. "We waive reading of the complaint and plead not guilty," declared Mr. Sooy. Mr. Moore, an attorney, who assisted the assistant attorney general, offered to produce evidence that Dougherty had voted for the boardwalk ordinance, but this was also admitted.

Burns, the detective, was placed on the stand at once. He was asked:

"What is your business?" "President of the Burns Detective Agency."

"Have you been employed in Atlantic City in the line of your business?"

"I have."

"When did you begin your investigation?" "A year ago."

"What was your employment here?"

"My understanding was that we were to make a general investigation among city officials to discover whether there was corruption here."

"What did you find?" Moore asked.

Burns said: "We were given reasons to believe that councilmen of Atlantic City were in the habit of taking bribes. With the object of testing this we prepared an ordinance for the rebuilding of the boardwalk."

"Did you have this ordinance introduced?" "We did."

"Who had direct charge of the work?" "Frank Smiley, known in the case as Mr. Franklin."

Burns told graphically of the summoning of Dougherty and the reading of the evidence obtained by the dictagraph in Malia's hotel. "I told Dougherty just what his rights were," he said. "I told him that I could promise nothing. I left the room to allow him to talk over the matter with Councilmen Phoebus and Lane, but when I returned Dougherty still insisted that he would make no statement and left the room."

There was a great craning of necks when Councilman Phoebus was called to the stand. Friends of Dougherty and other accused men started hisses, which were promptly stopped by the magistrate. Phoebus looked pale and wan and tottered as he stepped to the raised witness stand.

"Were you present when Councilman Dougherty met Mr. Burns in the Marlborough-Blenheim?" "I was."

"Did Burns ask him to make a confession?" "Yes, but Dougherty said no."

There was a groan when Phoebus stated that he told Dougherty that he "would be taken care of" if he voted for the boardwalk ordinance.

Phoebus then told of the "trapping" of his confederates in Councilman Malia's hotel, when the dictagraph was used. He appeared hazy about the actual presence of Dougherty in the room, but believed he saw Dougherty "go to the room" as he (Phoebus) came down stairs.

Smiley, the detective, was then called, and told of installing the dictagraph.

"Did Dougherty come to your room over Malia's saloon on April 17?" "He did."

"What did he come for?" "He said he wanted to talk about money for the boardwalk ordinance."

Smiley told of Dougherty declaring "the boys are with you," but asked that several other members of council be "let in." Smiley then declared that he passed Dougherty ten $50 gold certificates and named the numbers of the bills.

"What happened then?" Smiley was asked. "He thanked me and left; he appeared to be in a hurry," was the reply.

Councilman Lane, another one of the men reported to have confessed, declared that he refused to give Dougherty any advice when Dougherty was called in by Burns.

Failure to disclose the names of others implicated in the grafting has left the city in a ferment of excitement and men in official life in a state of panic.

Forty-one city officials and followers of politics were summoned to appear before Burns. He says these men all received the sum of $500 as part payment of $5000 for their votes for the passage of the bill authorizing the expenditure of $1,000,000 for the construction of a concrete boardwalk. He also says that of the remaining eight councilmen who voted for the bill four were guiltless.

W. H. DINKLE, GRADUATE OF OPTICS will be at Penrose Myers' Jewelry Store, every Tuesday. Free examination of the eyes.

FOR SALE: Buff Orpington and Columbia Wyandotte hens. Eggs for rebir. George Taylor.

W. E. D. STOKES.
Girl Who Shot Him Sues For $100,000.

'SHOOTING STAR' SUES STOKES FOR $100,000

Girl Declares His Statements Were False.

New York, June 1.—Lillian Graham wants $100,000 from W. E. D. Stokes, a millionaire hotel owner, because he had her arrested following the pistol play which she and Ethel Conrad and the millionaire sportsman participated in on June 7 last.

She instituted suit for that amount, and it was stated that Ethel Conrad would sue for the same amount as soon as her lawyer can have a guardian named for her, as she is under age.

The suit is the direct outcome of the arrest of the women on Stokes' charge of attempted murder. He went to the Varona apartments to meet Ethel Conrad. He had a row with the two girls and was shot and wounded in the legs.

The girls were indicted and after a sensational trial were acquitted by the jury.

He complained the Graham girl declares that Stokes' statements against her and Miss Conrad were "false and malicious."

YOUTH GUILTY OF MURDER

Convicted of Killing Sunbury Man in His Poolroom.

Sunbury, Pa., June 1.—"We find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree."

This was the verdict of the twelve men who heard the evidence in the case of Frederick Nye, charged with the murder of Harry E. Miller in his poolroom in the Masonic Temple on Feb. 11.

David Everett, who was with Nye at the time of the murder, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter last week. Everett said Nye did the shooting, but Nye went on the stand and declared that Everett was responsible for the murder.

The defendant's counsel immediately moved for a new trial.

KILLS SCHOOLGIRL

Former Soldier Wounds Himself After Shooting Child.

Phillipsburg, N. J., June 1.—Annie Lynch, a schoolgirl, thirteen years old, was attacked and killed near her home here by Frank Brown, a former private in the United States army. After shooting the girl Brown wounded himself. He may recover.

Brown went to the school where the girl was a pupil and told the principal that Annie's mother had sent for her. He departed, but hid in an alley not far away, where he attacked her. She escaped after a struggle and was shot while running. After going two blocks she fell dead on her father's doorstep.

SENATE PASSES 8-HOUR BILL

House Measure Goes Through by a Vote of 45 to 11.

Washington, June 1.—The senate passed, 45 to 11, the house eight-hour bill.

The measure requires that every contract made in which the United States is a party shall contain a provision that no mechanic or laborer shall be permitted to work more than eight hours in any one day.

Fifty Poisoned by Meal.

Rockland, Mass., June 1.—More than fifty persons are suffering from poisoning as the result of partaking of a meal served by the Women's Relief Corps of Hartnaft Post, G. A. R., following the Memorial Day parade. The coffee is believed to have been responsible for the poisoning.

Rich Women Aid Flood Sufferers.

New York, June 1.—Two of the wealthiest women of New York, Mrs. Russell Sage and Mrs. E. H. Harriman, contributed to Mayor Gaynor's relief fund for the southern flood sufferers. Mrs. Sage sent a check for $2500 and Mrs. Harriman gave $1000.

NOTICE

Letters testamentary on the Estate of Harriet E. Galbraith late of Gettysburg, Adams county, Pa., deceased, having been granted to the undersigned residing in Gettysburg, Pa., all persons indebted to said Estate are requested to make immediate payment, and those having claims will present them for settlement, to or, Wm. Hersh, Esq., Attorney.

HOWARD J. HARTMAN, Executor.

MARINES READY TO LAND IN CUBA

Will Protect American Property in Daiquiri.

DAMAGE HAS BEEN GREAT

There Will Be No Intervention, However, Unless Conditions Become Much Worse.

Washington, June 1.—With one hundred American marines on board the gunboat Paducah, in the harbor of Daiquiri, Cuba, the landing of the first American force on Cuban soil since the last intervention is expected to occur at any hour.

The Paducah left Guantanamo to carry marines to Daiquiri on receipt of the report of the destruction by the negro rebels of property of the Spanish-American iron company, an American owned corporation at that place. Commander Mitchell, in command of the Paducah, has authority to land his marines if he deems it necessary or advisable to insure the protection of American property. Although it is known that the Paducah has arrived at Daiquiri the navy department has no report that Commander Mitchell has landed any force.

The extent of the destruction of property at Daiquiri by the negroes was learned. They burned the stable, office, dwelling house, kitchen, locomotive house at a small settlement near by called Berraco, and also burned a store and several small buildings at La Playa. This is the first detailed report of the destruction of any valuable American property by the negro soldiers since the beginning of the uprising.

President Rand, of the Spanish-American iron company, called at the state department and expressed anxiety concerning the safety of American interests in the Santiago district.

Officials of both the state and war departments were unable to find anything encouraging in any aspect of the Cuban situation. It was learned that the negro leaders are giving receipts for property confiscated by them, these receipts being signed in the name of Estenoz, who, with Ivonnet, is the head of the uprising. This procedure is taken to indicate that Estenoz contemplates completely to overthrow the Gomez government and assume the presidency himself.

In the opinion of officials in Washington, the entire situation, especially as regards the course of the United States, depends upon the aggressive-ness of the negroes. The Gomez government is regarded as incompetent to deal with the situation should the negroes become more active.

There will be no consideration of intervention, however, unless conditions become vastly worse than at present.

BATTLE IN CUBA; 100 DEAD?

Government Forces Said to Have Clashed With Rebels.

Havana, June 1.—The newspapers published extra editions, saying that a serious fight had taken place in Oriente province, and that upwards of one hundred rebels have been killed. No confirmation of this story is obtainable from government sources. The extras also say that the United States auxiliary cruiser Prairie has landed marines at Daiquiri. This latter statement, however, is probable.

JAIL CONGRESS NOMINEE

New Jersey Socialist Given Six Months in County Jail.

Paterson, N. J., June 1.—Rudolph Katz, Socialist candidate for congress from a South New Jersey district and an organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, was arrested and sentenced to serve six months in the county jail for interfering with employees of a silk mill.

Katz announced that he would appeal so that he could continue his political campaign.

WILBUR WRIGHT MEMORIAL

Claude Grahame-White Plans Tribute to "Edison of the Air."

London, June 1.—Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator, announces his intention to organize the greatest flying meeting yet held at Hendon.

He will invite 200 airmen to take part in the competitions for the purpose of raising a fund to erect a memorial to Wilbur Wright. He says that Wilbur Wright might almost be described as "the Edison of the air."

Man and Woman Shot.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 1.—Persons living near the house occupied by John Heschler and his wife here heard two shots, and on entering the house found Heschler lying in bed with a bullet in his head and his wife nearby, shot in the breast. The police say the woman shot the man and then attempted suicide.

Champ Clark Loses $4000.

New York, June 1.—Hampton's Magazine has suspended publication and the June number will not be issued. One of the losers in the magazine is Speaker Champ Clark, who is said to have invested $4000 in the publication.

RECORD STILL STANDS

FEATS OF AMERICAN WAR HORSE ARE UNSURPASSED.

Captain May's Black Tom Said to Have Made Prodigious Leaps—Once Ridden Up Flight of Steps and Into Hotel.

"Only less celebrated than Old Rough and Ready's favorite white charger," writes Gen. James Grant Wilson, "was Capt. Charles Augustus May's Black Tom, a magnificent coal black gelding. Captain May was the beau sabreur of Taylor's army in Mexico."

"At the head of his squadron of the Second United States Dragoons, Captain May led a gallant charge against a Mexican battery in the battle of Resaca de la Palma, May 9, 1846, and, leaping Tom over one of the guns, captured General La Vega and the entire battery of six pieces."

"May possessed an unsurpassed military record for leaping with Tom, and it is quite possible one that has never been equaled in the hunting field, or even on the race course. My friend, the late Hon. Francis C. Lawley, perhaps the highest British authority on the subject, gives 34 feet as the greatest distance ever covered by an English horse in a steeplechase or elsewhere."

"Black Tom jumped 35 feet on a wager during the Mexican war, and three years later May made another bet that with a flying start of 50 yards he could leap Tom across a canal 36 feet in width. They came thundering along at a terrific speed, the jet-black steed nearly 17 hands high, and May more than six feet, sitting like a centaur. Tom gave a mighty jump, but fell short, and, of course, man and horse had a very sudden and cold bath, for the attempt was made in midwinter."

"For a Charlie O'Malley leap over a cart loaded with a cord of weed, standing in front of the city hall, the colonel was fined in a Baltimore court. On another occasion the dashing cavalryman rode Tom up the steps of the leading hotel of that city, cavorted around and through several of the principal apartments and then coolly rode out again, as if it was an ordinary, everyday occurrence."

"Thoroughbred Tom was a spirited and rather difficult horse for any one but his master to ride or control. A Maryland friend, wishing to make a fine appearance before a Baltimore belle, borrowed May's steed, but bearing too hard on the bit when near the lady's residence in Cathedral street, Tom began bucking, finally tossing the unfortunate lover into the street and galloping back to his stable.—Bulletin of the S. P. C. A.

Speaking of Colds.

This is precisely what fully two-thirds of the people in this part of the country seem to be doing at this particular time of year and under such weather conditions as have obtained for the last few weeks. This morning the New Englander who can sound a nasal letter clearly and unobstructedly is apt to be an object of envy among his or her associates. There appears to be no escape from the suggestion of a cold. It is even cold comfort to be told by Dr. J. B. Huber, in the New York Medical Journal, that colds seem to be the exclusive privilege of civilization; that the human race did not snuffle much until it began to build houses and to wear clothes, and that an essential element in the catching of colds has been the disturbance of equilibrium in the body through constantly passing from the superheated home into low temperatures without the house. The fact remains that the human race, or that portion of it which is found in this latitude, does build houses and wear clothes, and that it finds houses and clothes indispensable, even when winter is engaged in so mild an occupation as lingering in the lap of spring.—Manchester Union.

Referred to an Expert.

A stylishly dressed woman in a smart-looking brougham narrowly averted running over a messenger boy riding a bicycle. The woman stopped her car and opened the door of the electric to express her sympathy.

But the boy was ahead of her, and in a harangue that for emphasis would have made Captain Kidd or any of the old buccaneers green with envy, told her exactly what he thought of the incident.

The woman closed the door hurriedly, and, turning to her eight-year-old son, who, dressed like Lord Fauntleroy, sat demurely beside her, said in a shocked voice:

"I never heard such language in my life."

"Oh, that's nothing," the little fellow told his mother. "You ought to have heard the cook talking to the neighbors about you the other day."

Man to Make Rome Seaport.

The latest project to make Rome a seaport is to lay out a port 35 feet deep near Castel Fusaro, formed by running two jetties out into the sea for some distance, as at the port of Ymuiden, Holland. From the port will lead a ship canal 15 miles long and 200 feet wide and 27 feet deep. At Rome shipping accommodations will be laid out in the river below the city, and this will be connected with the navigable part of the Tiber by a system of locks. It will cost about $15,000,000 to carry out the project. Opponents of the idea claim it will not pay, but the promoters affirm that when once the city is connected with the Mediterranean there will result a great amount of traffic.

Refutation Tours.

"People are very likely to believe what they see in print."

"Yep," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "That's why those candidates have to keep travelin' around the country so much. They have to prove that they don't look like some of the pictures of 'em that get into the papers."

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World)

Francois Villon—France's "Gutter Genius"

THIS is the story of a man who won immortal fame, and yet whose real name is not known; a man whose renown has endured for nearly five centuries, yet much of whose life is Francois Villon shrouded in mystery. It is the story of an angel-devil, an inspired blackguard, a slum-hero, a pickpocket-poet, a thief and murderer whose poetical genius was scarce short of sublime.

In the low taverns of Paris, about the middle of the fifteenth century, the riff-raff of the local underworld raised for themselves an idol, in the shape of a brilliant youth of high education, who preferred to choose his chums from the sordid criminal class rather than from among his equals. He fought, stole, caroused and killed with ruffians, then wrote wondrous poems that were so musical that even his besotted comrades loved them. The slang of the Thieves' Kitchen was his. So was a flow of the most beautiful language known to man.

This youth was variously known by a string of aliases. Among these names were Corbier, Piton, De Montcorbier, Des Leges, Corbeuil and Francois Villon. Which, if any, of the names was really his own is uncertain. It was almost surely not "Villon." Yet by that alone he is known to history. Some say he borrowed the name "Villon" from his rich guardian, Guillaume de Villon. Others claim that it was merely a nickname, and that it was whimsically chosen by him because it was a French term for "crook," or "blackguard."

Villon had wealthy, influential friends. First and last, he needed all their influence and appropriated not a little of their wealth. His earliest known clash with the law was in 1455, when he was twenty-four years old. He was at that time a college graduate and a master of arts. Returning from a drunken revel one night he met a priest. A quarrel ensued and Villon stabbed the priest to death. Then he fled to some kindly shelter in the slums where the law's grip could not reach him, and hid among his criminal admirers until family influence could win a pardon for him.

A year or two later he was in trouble again. This time it was a tavern brawl. Villon did not figure very favorably in the affair. In fact, after a severe beating he ran away from Paris; more to avoid ridicule than to escape punishment. In the early spring of 1456 he became a student at the College of Navarre, near Paris, France. A few weeks later the treasure chest in the college chapel was robbed. A band of student thieves was arrested. One of them confessed that Villon was the ringleader of the gang who had broken into the chapel, and that the poet was even then planning new robberies.

Villon was put to the torture and then sentenced to be hanged. As he lay in prison, waiting for execution, he wrote one of his greatest poems; a grim, wonderful bit of verse, entitled, "Ballade of the Hanged." Again his friends' influence, coupled with his own wit, came to the poet's aid. His death sentence was commuted to banishment.

Villon then drifted from one European capital to another; sometimes living in doubtful fashion by his wits, sometimes hobnobbing with such princes and nobles as could appreciate his rare genius. Of his life during these wanderings little is known. But, four years later, he was cast into prison once more. This time, it is said, for the crime of sacrilege. He spent the summer of 1461 in a cell, but was set free in a general jail delivery in October of that year.

His old spirit of wild, reckless adventure seemed gone. Soon afterward he wrote his famous "Grand Testament," a work that breathes of weariness, regret and utter despondency. Broken by prison and by dissipation, he is said to have died of consumption at the age of thirty. (One or two historians believe he lived to be an old man; but, from his thirtieth year no record of him can be found.)

Villon's poetic genius stands out like a gem in a mire. The strange twist of brain that made him a criminal also enabled him to write such verse as no man of his time had attempted. His poetry has served as example for many a later bard and has found hosts of—usually unsuccessful—imitators.

Of the man himself, nothing good can be said. His writings live in spite of his personal career.

To Detect Fire Damp in Mines.

One of the simplest of the many suggested tests for fire damp in mines is that described to the Scottish Society of Arts. It is an attachment that may be applied to any oil or spirit lamp, and consists of a loop of copper wire supported on a brass rod passing through the oil vessel. To make a test the loop is moved into the flame. This becomes instantly nonluminous, but if fire damp is present in the air the gas cap is clearly seen. The test can be made in a moment, at any time, without turning down or putting out the light. It is claimed that the percentage of fire damp this method will detect is exceedingly small, and the results of trials in both laboratory and mine go to show that this is one of the most sensitive, accurate, and expeditious means of revealing the presence of inflammable gas in mine or other air.

AMERICAN EMPRESS OF KOREA

Her Son Would Have Been Ruler But for Annexation of the Country by Japan.

The empress of Korea, who died recently, was born in Appleton, Wis., the daughter of a Methodist minister, a "circuit rider" who made Appleton his home for a few years before the war, says the New York Evening Post. The Rev. Mr. Brown was a handsome southerner, and his wife a woman of exceptional beauty, who transmitted her beauty to her daughter Emily, who was born in 1861. Shortly after the war, when Emily was about five years old, the family left Appleton; and ten years later the Rev. Mr. Brown took his wife and daughter to Seoul, the capital of Korea, and was said to have been the first Protestant missionary to enter the capital of the Hermit Kingdom. The young Appleton girl soon learned the language of the Koreans, and acted as interpreter in dealings between the missionaries and the government. She had a remarkably sweet voice and attracted many natives to her father's mission by her wonderful singing of hymns. The emperor heard of the remarkable beauty and wonderful voice of the American girl and commanded her to enter his harem, which she indignantly refused to do. Two years later, however, when the mission was in financial straits, she accepted the emperor's offer and became one of his wives, with a promise of marriage in her father's mission as soon as conditions permitted. When the American wife had borne the emperor a son and his queen had died, Emily Brown was proclaimed queen, the ruler of Korea then being a king, and when he proclaimed himself emperor she became empress and received the name of Om, which, in the Korean language, means "Dawn of the Morning" or "As Beautiful as the Rising Sun." Emily Brown was the emperor's favorite wife, and her son was made the heir apparent, and but for the annexation of Korea by Japan, he would have become emperor on the death of the father.

Another Man Without a Country.

Martin Gajen, "man without a country," has been ordered deported from the United States.

Gajen shipped from New South Wales on the barkentine Arizona, bound for San Francisco. When within two days' sail of the latter port he became insane.

Under the immigration laws he could not be received in this country, and the steamship company which brought him here was ordered to take him back to his starting place.

Bpt New South Wales refused to accept him. Gajen was born in Russia and that government was appealed to, but in vain.

Efforts were made by the immigration authorities in this country to locate some of the relatives of Gajen, but without success. Just where he is to be sent has not been determined. —New York World.

The Secret Out.

"Why are taxes so high this year?" demanded the indignant citizen. "Will you consider it confidential if I tell you why?" whispered the clerk in the county treasurer's office. "Yes, sir."

"We need the money."

Dr. Hill says:

"As soon as I saw the EASY Washer I was satisfied. It is built on the right principle. It is an ideal washing machine."

Roseco Hill, M. D.
EASY Vacuum Washer
Washes Clothes by Air
That is the principle which is "right."
No need to tear or grind to wear.
Write to-day for particulars to DODGE & ZULLS, Agents, Box 24
Arendtsville, Pa.

GETTYSBURG MARKET

Prices at the Gettysburg warehouse received daily by C. Milton Wolf, Jr., Successor to J. Geo. Wolf's Sons, Co.

Per Bu
New Dry Wheat.....$1.14
Ear Corn......80
Rye......80
New Oats......55

RETAIL PRICES

Per 100
Daisy Dairy Feed.....$1.40
Schmacker Stock Feed.....1.60
Hand Packed Bran.....1.60
Coarse Spring Bran.....1.50
Cotton Seed Meal.....1.80
Corn and Oats Chop.....1.60
White Middlings.....1.70
Red Middlings.....1.60
Timothy Hay.....1.25
Rye Chop.....1.75
Baled Straw......75
Plaster.....$7.00 per ton
Cement.....$1.15 per bbl.

Per bbl.
Flour.....$5.20
Western Flour.....6.40

Per bu.
Wheat.....$1.25
Ear Corn......90
Shelled Corn......90
Oats......65
Western Oats......65

SPIRELLA CORSETS

Have your corsets made to measure, boned with non-rustable, non-breakable Spirella boning guaranteed for one year. Our corseietre will call on you on invitation and fit you in the seclusion of your own home.

We guarantee perfect satisfaction in style, fit and comfort. Call on or address

Anna C. Myers,
224 Balto St. Gettysburg, Pa

"KAYSER" patent finger tipped silk gloves. The tips outwear the gloves. None better Short gloves 50 cents, 16 button $1.00 per pair. Dougherty and Hartley.

THE "MONA LISA."

World's Finest Picture, Which Disappeared From the Paris Louvre.

MONA LISA FOUND?

Paris Paper Gets Out an Extra to Tell the News.

Paris, June 1.—La Presse in an extra edition makes the positive announcement that the famous masterpiece, "Mona Lisa," which was stolen some months ago, has been recovered by the detectives who have been searching for it. The paper does not say where the painting was found or where it now is.

KILLS HIS FATHER IN FIERCE QUARREL

Young Man Disappears After Shooting Parent.

Scranton, Pa., June 1. — Robert Priem, twenty-one years old, shot and killed his father, Herman Priem, aged forty-five years, a merchant of Dunmore, in the course of a quarrel.

The father is a hardware dealer and the son was employed in the store. A tenant of the father's building next door reported a broken faucet and the two went to repair it. Quarrelling between them, according to the neighbors, had been frequent, and it broke out while they were in the tenant's house.

The father drove the son out of the house, so the tenants say, and said he would have nothing more to do with him. Outside the son met his mother and she persuaded him to go back to his father and try to be friendly.

The son returned, and the father, it is said by the tenants, abused him roundly and threatened to attack him with a pick handle. The son thereupon drew a revolver and shot him. The ball pierced the body and death ensued within a short time.

The son waited about for a short time and then made off. He telephoned from another part of town in the course of an hour to inquire how badly his father was wounded, and was told he was dead. That is the last that has been heard of him.

FORT HEADS N. J. DELEGATES

Roosevelt to Be Supported at Chicago, All Members Vote.

Trenton, N. J., June 1.—The Roosevelt delegates-at-large and the district delegates elected to represent New Jersey in the Republican national convention selected former Governor Franklin Fort as their chairman, and Borden D. Whiting at national committeeman to succeed Franklin Murphy.

The delegation agreed to support the candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt to the last minute of the convention, this being the first delegation to so emphatically declare for the Rough Rider.

Watchman Cut to Pieces.

Wilmington, Del., June 1.—The mangled body of E. W. Culver, a night crossing watchman on the Pennsylvania railroad, was found on the tracks near Middletown. The head and both legs were severed from the body. The body was found a few feet from the crossing box and the conditions point to murder. The railroad police believe Culver was beaten and the body then thrown upon the tracks.

WEATHER EVERYWHERE.

Observations of United States weather bureaus taken at 8 p. m. yesterday follow:

Temp	Weather
Albany.....	54 Clear.
Atlantic City.....	72 Clear.
Boston.....	54 Cloudy.
Buffalo.....	56 P. Cloudy.
Chicago.....	76 Clear.
New Orleans.....	84 Cloudy.
New York.....	64 Clear.
Philadelphia.....	74 Clear.
St. Louis.....	76 P. Cloudy.
Washington.....	70 Clear.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today and tomorrow; southerly winds.

Public Sale

of LUMBER, SLAB and CORD WOOD FRIDAY, JUNE 7th

On the McIlhenny farm, formerly the Cobean farm, 1 mile from Gettysburg, along the Mummashburg road, the following:

80 Cords of white oak and hickory, slab wood cut in 12 inch lengths, 15,000 feet of offal boards and scantling, 40 cords of black wood, 20 acres of uncultivated tops and standing timber, chips,

SAYS DARROW GAVE BRIBE MONEY

Bert Franklin Tells of the $4000 Deal.

WAS USED TO BUY JUROR

Detective Says Darrow Said to Him "They Are On to Us" Shortly Before He Was Arrested.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 1.—Bert Franklin testified that when he called for the $4000 which was to have been transferred to Lockwood for his vote of "not guilty" in the trial of James H. McNamara.

Job Harriman, Socialist candidate for mayor in Los Angeles last fall and an associate of Darrow in the McNamara defense, was present in court for the first time since the trial began, and heard his name mentioned in connection with alleged bribe money.

Franklin testified that when he called for the $4000 at Darrow's office Darrow said to him: "Job will be here in about ten minutes." Mr. Franklin said:

"I reported to Mr. Darrow on the morning of Nov. 26, that Mr. Lockwood would call at my office at about 4:30 o'clock that afternoon; that Lockwood and I had arrived at an understanding with regard to the security of the money to be paid him, and that I was satisfied Lockwood would do what he had agreed to."

"I requested Mr. Darrow to get me $4000 during the forenoon, and I told him that I would see him at noon and at that time wished him to turn over the $4000 to me. I told him I believed I could conclude with Lockwood that day."

"Mr. Darrow answered that he would try to get the money if he had sufficient time."

"I replied that if he wished me to continue the negotiations with Lockwood I would have to have the money at the noon hour."

"I met Mr. Darrow at his office some time between 12 and 2 o'clock that day and asked him if he had brought the money. He said that he did not have the money. I have forgotten his reasons."

The witness then told of his meeting with O. E. White, whom he said he had selected as "stakeholder" for the Lockwood bribe money. After he had told White what he wanted him to do, he said, White declared: "My God, I would not trust George Lockwood as far as I could throw a ball by the tail."

"I assured Captain White that Lockwood was all right," testified Franklin.

Franklin said he had discussed with Darrow his conversation with White and had assured Darrow that White was absolutely trustworthy. Later he said he called up White and told him of his telephone conversation with Lockwood and was going out to see Lockwood that night. White, he said, declined an invitation to accompany him.

INFERNAL MACHINE FOR GIRL

Jealous Admirer Fixes Cartridge So Street Car Explodes It.

Huntington, W. Va., June 1.—Pretty nineteen-year-old Emma Dick, cashier in a restaurant here, is congratulating herself on her narrow escape from a bullet from a primitive infernal machine.

A jealous admirer placed a cartridge in a cigarette box on a car track with the bullet trained at an angle toward her by means of tin foil.

When the car sped by the cartridge was exploded and crashed through the plate glass window of the cafe where she was presiding at the cash register.

Woman Falls Out of Window.

Newark, N. J., June 1.—Mrs. Joseph Freeheim, fifty-seven years of age, of 241 Ferry street, in trying to lower a flag which was flown from a staff out of the attic window of her home, fell out of the window, landing three stories below. She was injured about the head, one arm was broken and it is feared she was hurt internally.

Killed in U. S. Ship.

Boston, June 1.—Longshoreman Patrick Roache was killed under an avalanche of soft coal, and Timothy Carigan and John J. Shea were partially buried in the slide while the three were loading a coal hoist in the hold of the United States collier Hester at the Charlestown navy yard.

Two Boys Drown From Canoes.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 1.—Norman Carigan, sixteen years old, of Annapolis, Md., and Anthony Logar, fourteen years old, of St. Paul, lost their lives by drowning in the Minnesota river when their canoes were overturned.

Mad Squirrel Attacks Girl.

Memphis, Tenn., June 1.—A squirrel believed to have the rabies attacked Edna Smith, sixteen years old. The young woman after a hard fight escaped to her home, where she fainted on the doorstep.

chucks, sawdust and ashes.

Sale to commence at 1 o'clock, P. M. sharp. A credit of three months will be given to all purchasers giving their notes with approved security. All sums under $5.00 cash. Positively no lumber to be removed until sale is over.

J. M. Caldwell, Auct.
P. A. Miller, Clerk.

WANTED: man and wife to work on farm by the year, house furnished and farm stocked. Inquire at Times office.

BASE BALL SCORES.

Following is the Result of Games Played Yesterday.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
At St. Louis—St. Louis, 9; Detroit, 1. Batteries—Powers, Stebbins, and Chell, Willett, Worsh, Stange. Other clubs not scheduled.
Standing of the Clubs.
W. L. P. C. W. L. P. C.
Chicago, 28 12 79; Cleveland, 17 19 4; Boston, 25 15 65; Washington, 18 21 9; Athletics, 17 16 53; New York, 12 2 3; Detroit, 20 20 50; St. Louis, 12 26 3.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
At New York—St. Louis, 5; New York, 1. Batteries—Willis, Lieberman, Wiltse, Teague, Meyers.
At Brooklyn—Brooklyn, 9; Los Angeles (1st game), 3. Batteries—McLean, Melowdy, Dickinson, Hogg, King, and Brown, 8; Boston, 3; 2d game, Batteries—Ragon, Rucker, Ewell, Brown, Donnelly, Gowdy.
At Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh, 6; Cincinnati, 2. Batteries—Adams, Gibson, Fromme, Bagby, McLean.
Other clubs not scheduled.
Standing of the Clubs.
W. L. P. C. W. L. P. C.
New York, 28 7 89; St. Louis, 20 22 47; Cincinnati, 23 17 57; Boston, 14 12 44; Chicago, 19 17 52; Brooklyn, 12 22 3; Pittsburgh, 18 17 51; Boston, 13 23 53.

TRI-STATE LEAGUE.
At Allentown—Harrisburg, 6; Allentown, 0. Batteries—Vonwinkle, Miller, Kutz, Philbin.
At Lancaster—Lancaster, 15; York, 0. Batteries—Coveleskie, Connolly, Williams, Jonathan.
At Trenton—Allentown, 4; Trenton, 3. Batteries—Reeder, Boezle, Oldham, Mitchell.
At Johnstown—Allentown, 1; Johnstown, 0. Batteries—Brazel, Kerr, Edwards, Ketter.

Standing of the Clubs.
W. L. P. C. W. L. P. C.
Harrisburg, 16 9 64; Allentown, 11 13 43; Trenton, 15 16 61; Allentown, 11 14 48; Lancaster, 13 10 53; Wheeling, 9 11 34; Johnstown, 13 11 52; York, 9 17 34.

JUDGE ARCHBOLD'S CULM BANK DEALS

Tried to Lease Coal Piles Near Shenandoah.

Washington, June 1.—Further testimony was heard by the house judiciary committee in regard to business deals with railroads in which Judge Archbold, of the United States commerce court, is alleged to have been interested.

Among those who appeared were James Archbold, Jr., engineer of the Stephen Girard estate of Philadelphia and George S. Kirkpatrick, superintendent of the estate. Archbold is a nephew of the judge.

It was brought out that Judge Archbold had attempted to obtain leases of culm piles near Shenandoah, Pa., in which the Lehigh Valley road was interested.

Testimony was also given to the effect that Judge Archbold tried to reconcile differences between the Marion Coal company, controlled by W. P. Boland and C. G. Boland of Scranton and the Lackawanna road. The Bolands complained to the interstate commerce commission that the Lackawanna was exacting unreasonable rates for the transportation of the product of the Marion Coal company. The Bolands wanted reparation in the sum of $50,000.

Judge Archbold suggested to the Lackawanna officials that they see an attorney, George M. Watson of Scranton. This was done. Watson demanded approximately $150,000 in settlement of the Boland claims. There was a suggestion in the testimony that an effort had been made "to hold up" the railroad.

Archbold's nephew and Mr. Kirkpatrick told the committee that the judge tried to lease last December culm coal piles near Shenandoah from the Girard estate, and that he had told them he had obtained the consent of the Lehigh railroad officials, who had "blanket" leases of the Girard coal land.

GENERAL MARKETS

PHILADELPHIA — FLOUR firm; winter wheat, $4.75@5; city mills fancy, $5.15@5.40.
RYE FLOUR quiet, at $4.90@5 per barrel.
WHEAT quiet; No. 2 red, $1.14@1.15.
CORN quiet; No. 2 yellow, 86½¢@87¢.
OATS firm; No. 2 white, 61¢@61½¢; lower grades, 60¢.

POULTRY: Live steady; hens, 15½¢@16¢; old roosters, 11¢. Dressed firm; choice fowls, 15½¢; old roosters, 12¢.
BUTTER quiet; creamery, fancy, 22¢ per lb.
EGGS steady; selected, 23¢@24¢; near by, 22¢; western, 22¢.

POTATOES steady, at $1.25@1.30 per bushel; new, $3@7 per barrel.
Live Stock Markets.
PITTSBURGH (Union Stock Yards) — CATTLE active; choice, $8.65@9; prime, $8.15@8.65.
SHEEP lower; prime wethers, $5.50@5.85; culls and common, $2.50@2.80; lambs, $3.50@8.50; veal calves, $9@9.25.
HOGS higher; prime heavies, medium and heavy Yorkers, $8.65@8.10; light Yorkers, $7.40@7.55; pigs, $6.75@7.25; roughs, $6.75@7.20.

1912 JUNE 1912

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
					1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29

M. THOMPSON DILL, DENTIST

Blizerville Penn
All branches of the profession given careful attention. United Telephone.

WANTED: carpenters and laborers.

Apply to Wm. H. Johns.

When you buy a Studebaker-E-M-F "30" or Studebaker-Flanders "20" you get more for your money, dollar for dollar, than in any other car built.

There may be other good cars—but what is their price? That's the rub. If they really are good cars, they necessarily cost more because comparatively few are built. Some poor cars, you know, are high priced too, so that the dealer can fool you by cutting the price. What a car is really worth, not what it costs, should be your standard.

The Studebaker Corporation has the largest and best automobile factories in the world. We could build and sell any competing car today for less money than its present price. In your Studebaker-E-M-F "30" or Flanders "20" you get full value, because the biggest factories and the best brains in the industry build these cars.

Studebaker-E-M-F "30" Touring Car, standard equipped, f.o.b. Detroit $1100. Equipped as above with Top, Windshield, Prest-O-Lite Tank and Speedometer, f.o.b. Detroit $1190.

Our New Art Catalogue Will Interest You—Send for it

The Studebaker Corporation

Detroit, Michigan

Local Dealer Gettysburg Motor Car Company, Gettysburg, Pa.
United Phone—216 X

The Paint Question will be settled when you let us open up a can of B. P. S. Paint for you.

Come In!
We'll explain why we believe B. P. S. is the Best Paint Sold.

Gettysburg Supply House

This is the line of paint formerly carried by J. H. Colliflower.

Wool

We want sheep wool for the city market.

Will pay highest cash price, Deliver at stable corner

York and Stratton Streets.

Spaulding and Bream

THE WESTERN MARYLAND RAILWAY

Leave Gettysburg Daily except Sunday
8:42 A. M. for Baltimore, Hanover, York and Intermediate Points.
10:08 A. M. for Hagerstown, Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Hancock, Cumberland, Elkins and Points West.
1:00 P. M. for York & Intermediate Points.
3:42 P. M. for Baltimore, Hanover, York and Intermediate Points.
5:45 P. M. for B. and O. Division Points to Highfield, also Hagerstown, Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Shippenburg and Hancock.
SUNDAYS ONLY
5:40 P. M. Local Train for York.
5:50 P. M. for New Oxford, Hanover and Intermediate Points to Baltimore.

AIR and SUDS

without friction is the way Syracuse "Easy" Vacuum washer washes.

For Special offer write

DAVID KNOUSS, Arendtsville, Pa.

PURE SMOOTH RICH

H.L. Newman's ICE CREAM

Best for all occasions

Take home a BRICK

Sold at

J. W. SPANGLER'S RESTAURANT

8 Chambersburg Street, Gettysburg, Pa.

CORTRIGHT

METAL SHINGLES

STORM PROOF

1 They interlock and overlap each other in such a way that the hardest driving rain or snow cannot sift under them.
Won't pulsate or rattle in wind-storms. They're also fire-proof, will last as long as the building, and never need repairs.

For Sale by T. J. Winebrenner, Gettysburg, Pa.
and D. B. Rock, Fairfield Pa.

-- WHIPS FREE--

$1.00 Raw Hide Whip Free with every set of Harness purchased from us this month.

We have several bargains.

We have a few BUGGIES we will sell at cost.

ADAMS COUNTY HARDWARE CO.

Britz of Headquarters

By Marcia Barber

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1918, by Moffat, Yard & Company

CHAPTER XV.

At Ward's Island.

"It's rather a remarkable coincidence, I'll admit," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

er unusual cases. "I'm not a fakir," said Britz to Fitch, as they stood on the deck of the little ferry boat that bore them toward the island; "but it's possible your little old friend had something to do with the making of the imitation Maharane diamond. You realize thoroughly, I'm sure, the importance of that link in our chain of evidence. It may be difficult to fasten the responsibility for manufacturing all the other fraudulent diamonds of the necklace upon the guilty person, because diamonds of that size can be imitated in any one of several large cities; but the man who made the fake Maharane is a past master of his craft; a man so skillful that even the most expert artificers of Europe and America do not pretend they can equal him."

"What makes you think the curio dealer had anything to do with it?" asked Fitch. "How could it be done? I thought the Maharane was made quite recently?"

"I don't know how long it's been," the detective replied. "It may have been only a few months, and the diamond, it is possible, may have been copied any time within the past year. That big office building has been less than a year in construction, and it's well within the bounds of fact that the curio dealer received the commission for the work twelve months ago, or possibly more."

"Oh," said the physician, "there is one flaw in your theory. He was not a fakir. All the information I gleaned about him convinced me he was not engaged in the manufacture of bogus jewels. His grand purpose in life was to make real diamonds."

"Precisely," said Britz. "It is that fact, much more than anything else, that leads me to think he may be in the employ of the persons we are trailing. Doesn't it occur to you that the false Maharane, in order to deceive Mrs. Missioner and all her friends for so long a time, must have been such a beautiful piece of work that it could not have been intended as an imitation? In other words, didn't the man who made the imitation Maharane believe he was manufacturing a genuine diamond?"

The little boat grated its nose against the island pier, and the two investigators sprang ashore. As soon as they entered the asylum grounds, their positions were reversed. Fitch became the mentor, Britz the willing pupil, for in that abode of darkness reason was medical men whose hourly association with that phase of existence made them welcome gladly visitors from the outer world—especially members of their own profession. Fitch, as he ran up the steps of the visitors' entrance, was received royally in the office by three or four physicians and surgeons who had known him in his Bellevue days. There was no jealousy of his success among them. He had shot ahead of several of them, and it was pretty well understood among the island doctors that Lawrence Fitch was rapidly forging to the fore as a fashionable physician. What was more important in their eyes was the fact that he had gained real distinction in his profession. Several minor but helpful discoveries of his had been recorded gratifyingly in the "Lancet," and more than once his name had been mentioned with flattering recognition at meetings of the County Medical Society.

Fitch was now in his element. He grasped warmly the hands held out to him, clapped two or three of his

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World)

Marat — "Star Villain" of the French Revolution

A UNKEMPT little dwarf—scarce five feet tall—with bearded eyes peering forth from a blotched and pallid face. Such was Jean Paul Marat, ruler of France's destinies at a day when France was a slaughter house.

The French Revolution was at its height. After throwing off the cruel bondage of royalty under which they had groaned for centuries, the French people beheaded their old tyrants, the aristocrats. Then, the thirst for blood being still unslaked, they fell to beheading each other. The "Reign of Terror" set in. First the revolutionists who believed in higher ideals and gentler methods were slain. Then the more rabid revolutionists divided into several parties or factions. And, whichever faction chanced at the moment to be uppermost executed members of the others. One leader after another arose to outdo his predecessors in deeds of violence, only to lose his own life and power to some still more murderous demagogue.

And the heart and soul of the Reign of Terror was Marat. He was a Swiss by birth and had at various times been a scientist, a literary man, a physician and—so says Carlyle—a horse doctor. When the revolution began he started a paper called "The Friend of the People." It was probably the most scurrilous, bloodthirsty sheet ever published.

The revolution at that time had not wholly thrown sanity aside. Marat's arrest was ordered. He escaped and fled to the lowest slums. There, hiding in the sewers and cellars, he spent his time making friends with the vile outcasts of the Paris underworld and in preaching to them his doctrine of wholesale murder. From time to time, as the revolution waxed more fierce, he would emerge from hiding with new plans for deeds of violence. Each time the saner leaders denounced him. But, soon or late, they followed his advice. And thus the revolution grew daily into the Reign of Terror.

At last it became safe for Marat to come wholly out of seclusion and to proclaim aloud, by voice and by his newspaper, his ideas for the death of his fellowmen. The revolutionary leaders feared and hated him. They held him in contempt for his squalid filth and his shrieking clamor for blood. But they could no longer send him into hiding. For the worst element of the mob now ruled Paris. And the mob adored Marat. He grew in power and his most terrible orders were obeyed.

He framed a law by which 400,000 persons were arrested on suspicion of being false to the revolution. Hundreds more were guillotined at his command. He even gravely expressed a wish to behead an entire French army of 270,000 officers and men.

With Robespierre and Danton (both of whom later fell victims to the guillotine) he formed a triumvirate to govern the French people. For a time he was the ruling spirit in this combination. In vain did his opponents call him "sewer rat," and even less complimentary names. In vain did they plot for his downfall. By sheer force of evil he crushed all opposition. And the crazy mob slavishly followed his one virtue. By grafting, as did other revolutionary chiefs, he might have made millions of dollars. He died with just twenty-one cents.

Nature at last did what man could not, to shorten the career of this "star villain" of France's Scarlet Tragedy. Marat's health gave out. He suffered intolerable pain. The only relief he could get was to lie for hours in a tub of hot water. The great unwashed was actually forced to bathe!

It was while he was wrapped in a sheet in the steaming bathtub on the evening of July 13, 1793, that a young girl from the provinces called to see him. She said she had with her a list of traitors' names and began to read them to him. Marat listened greedily. At the end he croaked: "They shall die! Every one of them!"

As he spoke, the girl—Charlotte Corday—stabbed him to the heart. She had hoped to free France from a tyrant. But she did more harm than good. In the first place, Marat had already been dying from disease, and at most could have had but a few weeks to live. In the second, she made the people regard a monster as a martyr. And, for months, the most atrocious cruelties were carried on, under the pretext that Marat would have wished them.

Instead of ending the Reign of Terror, Charlotte Corday had but increased its horrors. Here was a wasted crime.

Exonerated. (to railway manager)—Here, I say, I got a cinder in my eye from one of your beastly engines, and it cost me 10 shillings for a doctor to get it out and dress the eye. Now, what do you propose to do in the matter?

Railway Manager.—Nothing, my dear sir, nothing. We have no use for the cinder, and you are perfectly welcome to it. No doubt, strictly speaking, you did go off with our property—the cinder of course, was not yours—but we do not care to make a fuss about such a small matter. Pray do not give the incident a moment's thought.

Foot Moulded Ralston SHOES

Set the pace for style

The most exacting man adopts the Ralston for "his" after the first pair is once worn. In Ralstons are embodied style, character, elegance, comfort. The shoes—RALSTON SHOES—today and learn the lesson of wisdom. Other shoes for men, women and children.

SUMMER SHIRTS

Negligee Shirts in many pretty patterns. Soft collar, attached and unattached. A very good assortment from which to select this necessary part of your summer outfit.

UNDERWEAR

We have the B. V. D., Porosknit and Gauze underwear for Spring and Summer use. Union suits and two piece suits.

Blue Serge Suits from $6.50 up

O. H. LESTZ

Cor. Square and Carlisle St., Gettysburg, Pa.

O. H. LESTZ

Galvanized Roofing

1 14 inch Corrugated Galvanized Iron in 8, 9, and 10 ft. lengths at $3.35 a square.

Thos. J. Winebrenner

BALTO. ST.

MUCH FUN AT HOBBY PARTY

Clever Idea of Girl With Some Originality That Is Well Worth Being Imitated.

A party given recently by a clever girl which was both original and entertaining and proved to be a great success was a hobby party. The invitations were worded in the following manner: "Come to my party on Wednesday night and wear your pet hobby; also state in your acceptance what is your favorite dish."

The groups that assembled in the big living room were just the funniest conglomeration imaginable, the "eccentricities of genius personified," as one girl expressed it.

There was the postage stamp fiend wearing a motley collection pasted on various parts of her clothing, even her face, hands and hair bore a sticker from some place. The girl who was making silk quilts out of her party gowns and those of her friends was arrayed in a costume by the side of which Joseph's historical coat of many colors would have looked a sad and sober garment. Bugs, butterflies, toads and lizards played in most lifelike attitudes over the clothing of the naturalist in the crowd, and the girl who went in for physical culture wore a necklace of miniature Indian clubs and dumbbells. Of course, the camera crank went around trying to "take" everybody and the autograph collector was on hand with book and pencil.

A golf enthusiast wore a golf suit made of calico in a brilliant Scotch plaid and topped it with a Tam o' Shanter. Fastened to his buttonhole was a small case of golf clubs, such as are sometimes used for dinner favors.

One of the drollest figures was the man devoted to making hand-made furniture; he had a set of doll's chairs, table and bed, which he had in a basket, and insisted upon showing everyone how perfectly they were constructed. Altogether it was a most amusing party.

When refreshments were served it was seen how the hostess had endeavored to cater to the likes of her guests.

WITH EVERYTHING IN PLACE

Fourfold Bag Has Compartments for the Odds and Ends That So Easily Get Lost or Misaid.

If you once have owned a fourfold bag you will never again be without one. Into the separate compartments can go buttons, hooks and eyes, thread and sewing utensils and a small piece of work, and there is no wild hunting for the article needed as in a one-piece bag.

These bags may be made in any size, but a convenient size is made from a yard and three-quarters of five-inch flowered ribbon with colored satin edges. Cut the ribbon into four strips of equal length, double each strip and overcast the edges together to form a small bag. Turn in the top to the depth of an inch for the heading and run with a double line of sewing for a casing.

Use two yards of number one or baby satin ribbon for a drawstring, cutting in separate yard pieces. Rip the stitches on the outside of the casing between the line of sewing, and run the drawstring through the outside of each of the four bags, tying the ends in a fluffy bow. Start the other drawstrings at the opposite end with two bags to each side and run around the four, using the inner side of casing. Tie ends in a bow.

To keep the bags from sliding on the drawstring, tack the two on each side together, running a stitch or two look in the frill just above the casing. This makes them draw easily on one string.

IDAHO A WONDERFUL STATE

Even the Victims of Its Swindlers Make Money by the Fraud, Says Senator Borah.

United States Senator Borah claims that his state of Idaho is so good that even the people who get cheated within its smiling domain make money by the transaction. On his way from Washington after the adjournment of the last session of congress, he was introduced on the train to an eastern woman who immediately began to tell a long, sad story about the robberlike practices of western people in general and Idaho men in particular.

"My husband was a traveling man," she explained in a lachrymose voice, "and one night in Boise City some of your people gave him too much drink, so much in fact, that he didn't know what he was doing. The next morning he waked up and discovered that he had bought fourteen hundred dollars' worth of mining stock at four cents a share. Think of that, the greatest outrage I ever heard of. I have never even looked up the mine in which the stock was sold, but the experience has taught me that western promoters are merely burglars. My poor, dear husband was robbed as surely as if those men had held him up at the point of a gun."

Mr. Borah asked the name of the mine, and she told him. Without saying a word, he picked up a newspaper and pointed to the stock quotations. Right there that Niobe-like woman got the shock of her life. The stock was shown to be worth $140,000 that day.—Popular Magazine.

"DOROTHY" BAG.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

The "Dorothy" bag, the latest receptacle for Milady's knickknacks. The bag came into unenviable notoriety when it was conspicuously carried by thousands of militant English Suffragettes in their smashing campaign, who found the "Dorothy" the most convenient kind of handbag in which to carry stones and hide hammers.

There is said to be a woman somewhere who can actually sharpen a lead pencil so well that it doesn't look as if she had done it with her teeth.

FOR SALE

The farm of the late William H. Adams, five miles north of Gettysburg, along the Harrisburg state road containing seventy-five acres, three acres of timber, improved with a frame house and barn, two wells of water and all other buildings. For further information call on or address HARRY W. ADAMS, Executor.

THE recent fire suggests looking up your fire insurance. Are you well protected, if not, our company's representative is the strongest in America. Dougherty and Hartley, Insurance

LOST: Ladies' camera ring in men's wash room at Eagle Hotel. Reward if returned to Times office.